Ixoreal's KSM-66 ashwagandha is made in India.

This means that local farmers are producing ashwagandha roots right here in India, under Indian laws and conforming to highest quality standards. Ixoreal's staff takes utmost care to monitor the agricultural practices making sure that farmers follow Good Agricultural and Collection Practices (GACP). Rajasthan in India is one of the most suited terrains known to grow the best quality ashwagandha in the world, and this is where our ashwagandha farms are located. They are cultivated organically.

Producing locally allows us to more closely monitor the quality of the raw ingredients from the moment we receive them, right through the production process.

To ensure Ixoreal's very high standards, all our suppliers must meet strict quality criteria and even undergo independent audits if required, no matter which farm in India they are located.

All the raw materials are stored in quarantine before being subjected to processing. To ensure KSM-66 ashwagandha's consistency and high quality and to prevent raw material and pre-finished material from being adulterated, contaminated or spoiled, Ixoreal has established manufacturing controls at every stage. KSM-66 ashwagandha processing is done in exclusively designed clean room systems.
